THREE FREE UNIQUE WORKSHOPS

Talking with your Kids about Sexuality

Conversations about sexuality can be a difficult task. We often worry that talking about it gives permission and wonder if our children can be safe from harm when they are in relationships. This workshop will help you become more comfortable discussing this topic and offer effective ways to talk about it.

Sexual Attraction and Orientation

Two experts will provide information that promotes ongoing education, understanding, respect, and support for citizens with intellectual and developmental disabilities who identify as LGBTQIA. Statewide and local resources will be shared.

Happily Ever After

After years of dating and living in separate group homes, Paul and Hava knew they wanted to get married and live happily ever after. This inspirational couple and their families will share their story about how love wins, and how their marriage is still thriving and benefitting from the supports of living in an EEDA group home.
